2. How do we check that the provision is working?

We will check how the provision that is put in place is working through the following ways:

Discussions and pupil progress meetings with teachers

Analysing data

Baseline assessment for spelling and reading as well as English, Maths and Science

Interim and end of year assessments in all subjects

Assess, plan do and review process/graduated approach

Lesson Observations and Learning Walks

SEND Department/External Agency Assessments

Reviewing interventions

Reviewing SEND targets set in Individual plans

Parent/Child Views

Book looks

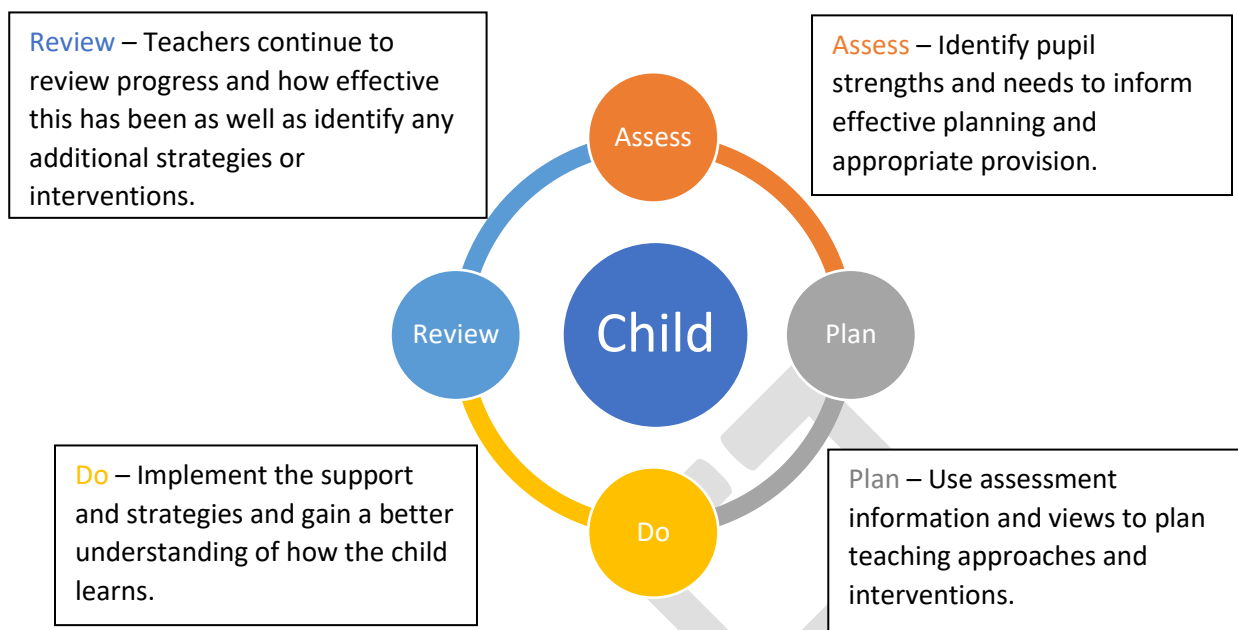

3. Identifying pupils with SEND and assessing their needs

We would firstly liaise with primary schools to determine who is on the special educational needs register and who requires support within the school. Relevant files and plans are transferred to us by the primary school as well as preparation for transition from primary school to secondary school.

We will also assess each student's current skills and levels of attainment on entry, which will build on previous settings and Key Stages, where appropriate. Teachers will make regular assessments of progress for all pupils within their subjects and throughout the year.

When deciding whether special educational provision is required and a child is not currently on the special educational needs (SEN) register, we will start with looking at the relevant data, observations and learning walks to determine how the child learns and what strategies need to be used within the classroom. We will look at the desired outcomes, including the expected progress and attainment, and the views and the wishes of the student and their parents. We will use this to determine the support or whether something different or additional is needed.

We will use a person centred approach where we complete the assess, plan, do and review cycles and create a plan of strategies and provisions that need to be in place. Please see what this process looks like below:

Teachers will review and monitor the progress over a term. Where there are concerns about a learner having possible SEND, pupils are then referred to the SEND team for further investigation and observation. Pupils and parents /carers will be informed at each stage about what is happening and what it means. Where necessary parents / carers may be asked for permission for their child to see an external agency for advice or to assist in identifying SEND.

4. Assessing and reviewing pupils' progress

We will follow the graduated approach and the four-part cycle of assess, plan, do, review.

Subject teachers will work with the SENDCO to carry out a clear analysis of the pupil's needs. This will draw on:

The teacher's assessment and experience of the student

Their previous progress and attainment or behaviour

The individual's development in comparison to their peers and national data

The views and experience of parents

The student's own views

Advice from external support services, if relevant

The assessment will be reviewed regularly.

All teachers and support staff who work with the student will be made aware of their needs, the outcomes sought, the support provided, and any teaching strategies or approaches that are required. We will regularly review the effectiveness of the support and interventions and their impact on the student's progress.

Teachers will look at and analyse pupil progress for all students regularly within their department meetings. Pupils on the SEND register will be monitored more closely. The SENCO reviews this data for SEND pupils termly and liaises with subject teachers as appropriate in order to adjust provision where appropriate. The views of the pupil and their parents / carers are vital in assessing the impact of the additional support given and parents / carers are invited to discuss the progress of their child with the SENCO on a termly basis via questionnaires. Parents / carers also have the opportunity to discuss their child's progress with subject teachers at parents evening. Urgent concerns can be discussed by appointment with the SENCO.

5. Our approach to teaching pupils with SEND

Teachers are responsible and accountable for the progress and development of all the students in their class. We are a fully inclusive school and work to ensure students with SEND have access to the full curriculum.

High-quality teaching is our first step in responding to pupils who have SEND. This will be adapted for individual students depending on need and provision required.

We will also provide interventions as identified and agreed in the student learning plans in consultation with parents, teachers and external agencies where necessary.

6. What extra-curricular activities can a pupil with Special Educational Needs access at Christ Church Secondary Academy?

All of our extra-curricular activities and school visits are available to all our students, including our before- and after-school clubs. Staff leading extra-curricular activities can liaise with the SEND department to look at the support required to allow children to be fully included within the activity.

All students will be encouraged to go on any trips or residential trips. We will create risk assessments and consult parents where needed.

All students are encouraged to take part in sports, school productions and our Friday afternoon enrichment programme.

No pupil is ever excluded from taking part in these activities because of their SEN or disability.

7. What training do the staff in school have in relation to pupils with Special Educational Needs and Disability?

Every teacher is a teacher of SEND. CPD sessions around High-Quality Teaching (HQT) are available for all teaching staff and a lesson observation schedule is in place across departments to ensure that HQT is delivered.

All teaching staff receive annual training and information on: -

- The SEND Code and SEND processes such as the graduated response, information about the children and the provision that they require.
- High quality teaching strategies
- How to identify additional support needs and the school's process.
- Level 1 Autism Awareness training which is delivered by the communication and autism team.

- As part of their continuing professional development all teaching staff undertake training in relation to pupils with Special Educational Needs throughout the academic year, in response to staff requests for support and areas for development identified by the Director of SEND.
- Deliberate practice and additional training sessions focusing on specific areas of SEND in more detail
- SEND briefings for teaching staff of particular high-focus students
- All staff receive annual training on emergency first aid for allergies and asthma training.

Examples of training which specialist support staff receive as appropriate:

- Good autism practice and intervention.
- Dynamo maths
- Lexia intervention
- Speech, language and communication intervention
- Numeracy and literacy catch up.
- Supporting students with particular areas of need on an on-going basis both from the SENCO and from outside agencies.
- How to support children within the classroom effectively.
- Targeted social, emotional, mental health interventions.
- THRIVE
